Talking and writing and reading about ghosts sometime cause anxiety and fear in people. I suppose most people do not want to be ignorant. Maybe that is why we play down any mention of ghosts, certainly not entertaining an inquiry or conversation about whether these entities are 'here' or 'not here'--Whether they exist or not.

Julian Williams

Julian loved telling stories, especially about the "ghosts" he may or may not have encountered during his life. This is a very enjoyable read.

Doc Holliday—There has never been a man on the old frontier who had his manners, his view of life, his ability to shoot and the courage to face anything without fear

Julian Williams

Doc Holliday was certainly an enigma as he displayed both fearlessness and loyalty to those he hated and esteemed. This is the story of a Georgia boy who gave up a dental career for a career of an outlaw. A must read for those who enjoy Julian's writing.
